SECOND INDUSTRIAL DIRECTORY

OF

PENNSYLVANIA

1916

HARRISBURG, PA.
WM. STANLEY RAY, STATE PRINTER.
1916.

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 15, 1916.

Hon. John Price Jackson,
Commissioner of Labor and Industry.

Sir: I herewith transmit the Second Industrial Directory of Pennsylvania, the same being published in compliance with Section 11, of the Act of Assembly, Approved June 2, 1913, which requires the collection, compilation, and publication of statistical details and general information relating to the Industries of the Commonwealth.

PAUL N. FURMAN,
Chief of Bureau of Statistics and Information.

INTRODUCTORY.

The First Industrial Directory of Pennsylvania was published in 1914, and it was received with unusual favor by the business interests of the Commonwealth. An effort has been made to make this, the Second Edition, of even greater interest and benefit to employer and worker.

The Volume contains four parts divided as follows:—

Part I. Industrial establishments classified by product, and alphabetically arranged, with lists of coal companies and Public Service corporations.

Part II. Industrial establishments classified by counties and alphabetically arranged by cities and towns, with number of mercantile establishments in the several counties, also a brief resume of the industrial resources of each county, and the opportunities offered for doing business therein.

Part III. Boards of Trade, Business Men's Associations, Chambers of Commerce and Manufacturer's Associations. Through the Division of Municipal Statistics and Information, of the Bureau of Statistics and Information, there has been collected a list of Mayors of Cities, Burgesses, Aldermen and Justices of the Peace, and Secretaries of School Boards in the several municipal Divisions in each of the counties of the State. The Compensation Referees with the location of their offices and counties composing each District are given also.

Part IV. Labor organizations, officers and Unions.

The data for this volume was obtained from reports made to this Department, and by correspondence with industrial concerns whose name and addresses were secured through commercial agencies, and appreciation of valuable assistance received from the Public Service Commission, and the Department of Mines is hereby acknowledged.

A complete index covering each subject or item of interest is found in the final pages of the book.

Industrial establishments classified by counties, and alphabetically arranged by cities and towns, with number of mercantile establishments in the several counties, also a brief resume of the industrial resources of each county, and the opportunities offered for doing business therein.

An (*) or (x) indicates that number of employees is given elsewhere).

ADAMS COUNTY.

The county of Adams was formed in the year 1800, from part of the county of York, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 34,300. The principal center of population is the borough of Gettysburg, which is the county seat having a population of approximately 5,000. A very small percentage of the population of the county are foreigners.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Western Maryland Railroad, and the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Companies, and one trolley line is reported, being the Electric Railway, covering the battlefield of Gettysburg, and running from Gettysburg to Round Top. Its water supply is abundant, but no natural gas is found within the county, its fuel being secured from the anthracite and bituminous fields in other sections of the State.

Its natural resources are good farm lands, the county being largely an agricultural section. Its principal industries are farming, the manufacture of cigars, brick, furniture etc., with other industrial activities.

Skilled and unskilled labor is available, but no surplus of female labor is reported. Rents are low, and taxes normal, the rate of wages being about the average. Light, heat and electric power is furnished at about the average rates. Good industrial sites are available, but no special inducements are offered to manufacturers.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY.

The County of Allegheny was formed in the year 1788 from parts of the counties of Westmoreland and Washington, and at the last decennial census reported a population of 1,018,463. The principal centers of population are the cities of Pittsburgh, Braddock and McKeesport, with numerous boroughs and towns throughout the County, Pittsburgh being the county seat and having a population of 600,000. The per cent. of foreign population in the county is above the average.

The County of Allegheny is one of the great industrial centers of the whole country, numerous large steel industries being found within its borders, together with almost every other known industrial activity.

Its railroad facilities are afforded by the Pennsylvania lines East and West, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad, the Wabash and Western Maryland Railroads, with other connections to all parts of the country. Its trolley facilities are principally afforded by the Pittsburgh Railways Co., the West Penn Street Railway Co., with other lines traversing practically the whole County. Transportation to the west and south by water is afforded by means of the Ohio River.

Natural gas is supplied in abundance at reasonable rates, and bituminous coal for fuel purposes is found within its own borders and in the nearby counties.

The natural resources of the County are coal, gas, oil, sand, gravel, clay, etc. Its principal industries are the great chemical, glass and steel industries and coal mining.

Rents are above the average, skilled and unskilled labor is available, no surplus of female labor being reported. Taxes are below the average, and sites for new industries are available, but no particular or special inducements are offered for manufacturing enterprises.

Its principal commercial organizations are the Chamber of Commerce, the Commercial Club, the Allied Boards of Trade, the Real Estate Board and Builders Exchange of the City of Pittsburgh, with similar organizations in the various boroughs and towns throughout the County.
